

1970s Politics - Where Do You Stand?

Where do you stand on the following statements?

1. When it comes to politics, anything goes. (In your answer, consider where the line is, if there is one. What are you ok with or NOT ok with?)

2. The President of the United States is responsible for the actions and decisions of those beneath them.

3. Our elected leaders should be held to the same moral AND legal standards as an ordinary citizen.

4. Which statement do you agree with and why?
 - a. Putting the president on trial sets a bad precedent for the future. Presidents should be above the law and should not be subjected to the same moral and legal standards as other Americans.
 - b. If a president does something illegal or unbecoming of the office of the president, they should be indicted and tried for their actions just as any other citizen would be.

5. After a national scandal or event which served to divide citizens, it is the president's role/responsibility to take all steps necessary to help the nation move forward in a unified fashion.
